FAIRTRADE

FAIRTRADE WINE
CHILE - ARGENTINA

INTRODUCTION

Chile and Argentina are the primary wine-producing countries in Latin America. Their ideal location, climatic conditions and fertile valley soils, with the Andes Mountains at their back, make them stand-out nations in the variety and quality of the wines they are able to produce.

The first Fairtrade wine certification took place in Chile in 2005, and since then they've grown in the number of producers, workers and buyers committed to the fair trade values. Currently, there are 14 certified organizations (both small-scale producers and companies) between the two countries.

The Fairtrade certified organizations in Chile and Argentina make great efforts to improve the livelihoods of farmers and workers in grape production, investing additional resources in environmental conservation and implementing best agricultural practices; always looking for sustainability in production.

The respect for the knowledge acquired from past generations, together with the use of new technology, allows that Fairtrade wine (s) maintain a balance between tradition and innovation, making them some of the most unique wines in the world. We invite you to continue reading to learn more about the producers from this region and the characteristics of their wine (s).

THE BENEFITS OF FAIRTRADE

Fairtrade certified wine impacts the lives of small-scale producers, workers, their families and the communities involved in grape production and winemaking.

The Fairtrade standards have been created to serve as a guide, promoting best practices in agriculture and trade, as well as with regard for social impact. These practices must be carried out by both certified producers and workers, seeking a more sustainable production. [With Fairtrade], small-scale producers have access to better sales conditions, with long-term contracts and a guaranteed Minimum Price; this allows them to cover the costs of production. On the other hand, workers have access to decent working conditions, thanks to the strict labor standards enforced by Fairtrade. With each sale of Fairtrade wine, producers and workers receive the Fairtrade Premium, with which they are able to invest in economic, social and environmental development.

USING THE FAIRTRADE PREMIUM

PRODUCTIVE DEVELOPMENT

With funds from the Fairtrade Premium, small-scale producer organizations in Chile and Argentina have invested in technical assistance and fertilization plans.

HOUSING

Thanks to the Fairtrade Premium, workers have been able to improve their living conditions, either with home-improvement materials or low-rate loans.

HEALTH

Workers have healthcare plans that enable them to access services generally not covered by official health plans.

The construction and donation of health centers are other examples of how the Premium is invested.

EDUCATION

Supporting the construction of schools and making library donations are other examples of how the organizations in Chile and Argentina have made use of the Fairtrade Premium.

VIÑEDOS EMILIANA S.A.

FLOID 26283

At Emiliana, we don't just believe that organic and biodynamic agriculture is the best way to produce wine; we are convinced that it's a way of life, helping us to project a future with respect and wisdom. We are organic certified because we understand that by taking care of the land and its fruits, nature can express itself in a more authentic and unique way. And when nature expresses itself, it moves the world... awakening passions and provoking change. It opens the path for us to take our first steps, and it inspires us to create unique works.

COOPERATIVA AGRÍCOLA VITIVINÍCOLA LONCOMILLA

FLOID 21799

The cooperative was founded in 1959 primarily producing red wine varieties, particularly the variety "País", followed by Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot, and in smaller quantities Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc. They make wine with latest technology in vats made of stainless steel and cement, using continuous pneumatic presses. It is a historic cooperative that brings together its members, who are highly committed to producing grapes, caring for the vineyards, the land and their family traditions... all this characterizes their way of doing things, using old traditions to improve the quality of wine.

COOPERATIVA AGRÍCOLA Y VITIVINÍCOLA CAUPOLICÁN LIMITADA

FLOID 20332

The historic origins of small-scale producers date back to the 1970s, with the Agrarian Reform in Chile. The small producers of Cooperativa Caupolicán are the living example of a very small number of families that have managed to preserve their land in the Curicó Valley, despite all the adversities. At the cooperative, there's a spirit of solidarity that stands out, with the lasting and accumulated experiences of its members. One of the values that distinguishes them from other organizations, for example, is their focus on gender. They value the participation of women on the board of directors and therefore, in decision-making.

FLOID 18898

The Wine Network is an organization formed by 20 small wine producers from the Colchagua Valley. For more than 20 years, we have been promoting the integration of small producers and their families in the Colchagua Valley

Our Fairtrade project is to transform small producers of raw materials into producers of artisanal wines and wine tourism with a local and cultural identity, a process based on local, sustainable practices and social integration.

The vision of the Colchagua Wine Network is to promote, disseminate, and preserve the identity of the work of the land and its fruits, stimulating the participation of farmers' families who live in our valley.

Our main mission is to offer a first-class product in the wine and tourism market, control its production and elaboration, and preserve the traditions and customs of the farmer family.

This concept is rooted in our company "to fight for the development of small producers, that they are recognized, feel proud and highlight the essence of Chilean producers."

The organization produces collective wine. Currently, there are very few wines produced under this concept, because in order to achieve it you have to forget about the “personal” or “individual” and deliver your best grapes, traditions and techniques; which are the key for creating one sole product for our consumers. In other words, each member elaborates their wine in the bodega (winery) of their own vineyards. Once they're all made, a team of winemakers creates a blend, choosing the best selection and giving life to a unique and collective product called “Vid Seca.”

BODEGA MONTLAIZ SA

FLOID 33209

Bodega Montlaiz is a family-owned business founded in 1904, today managed by the fourth generation. The grapes have always been grown naturally without the use of chemicals, taking into account that nature can provide all the necessary tools to produce high quality wines. The grapes are produced on farms located in the central and eastern part of Mendoza. Processing and elaboration is carried out in San Martín, Mendoza. Here, they are currently incorporating renewable energy sources in order to reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

Bodega Alta Vista was founded in 1998. The vineyards where the wines originate are located in the best terroirs in the province of Mendoza. They are distributed into five farms, all planted 1,000 meters above sea level, to achieve maximum character while respecting the grapes' identity... each case results in a differentiated work. This technique is called "Terroir Management." The winery is located in the heart of Chacras de Coria, 15 kilometers south of the city of Mendoza. It is a historic building built in 1899; this was restored in 2003, respecting its traditional architecture while incorporating the latest winemaking technologies. It is one of the oldest wineries still in production in Mendoza.

FLOID 3657

La Riojana is a cooperative of small and medium-sized grape producers located in the Famatina Valley, in the province of La Rioja, Argentina. It was founded in 1940 and is approximately 80 years old this year (2020). The cooperative produces, elaborates and commercializes traditional wine, sparkling wine, grape juice and olive oils under the international parameters for food quality and safety; destined to satisfy the demand of both the domestic and export markets. The grapes come from the vineyards of more than 400 producers, distributed across six departments of the Famatina Valley. This fertile valley is itself a natural paradise for growing wine, particularly due to its soil type ranging from clay to sandy or alluvial clay. Here, the grapes are cultivated between 900 and 1,400 meters above sea level. As part of its fundamental principles, the cooperative promotes the conservation of the environment as well as economic solidarity, especially with regard to the resources and benefits received from Fairtrade.

FINCA LA CELIA

FLOID 18509

La Celia makes an impact with wines that, because of their origin in the Uco Valley, are exclusive in international markets. The terroir that surrounds the spirit of La Celia was born in the Uco Valley, south of the Tunuyan river where the first Malbec was planted in 1882, originally from France. With the natural charm of its vineyards and fertile soils, La Celia delivers a world-class product. Their estate is located in the valley, in the district of Eugenio Bustos, department of San Carlos. Far from the capital of Mendoza (100 kilometers to the south), it is treasured as a terroir of excellent vineyards and a natural paradise at the foot of the Andes Mountains.

The diversity of microclimates, great thermal amplitudes, changing soils and altitude all provide a unique ecosystem for producing high quality Malbec grapes.

BODEGA EL ESTECO

FLOID 36323

Bodega El Esteco is located in Cafayate, in the heart of the Calchaqui Valley and surrounded by a beautiful landscape carved by the sun, mountains and vineyards. The winery has a notable respect for the Salta tradition, a fusion between the legacy of ancient civilizations, Hispanic influence and the Creole spirit. Located along the legendary Route 40, they have an estate of 500 hectares in Cafayate, Salta and another 260 hectares at Chañar Punco farm in Santa María, Catamarca.

Guarded by the mountains, you'll find the colonial and characteristic winery...

Unique characteristics of the region help create wines that are different from those commonly known. Alluvial soils, sunny mornings and warm afternoons during the summer months allow for long periods of [grape] maturation; all this, along with the notable thermal amplitude make Cafayate an exceptional terroir.

Its vineyards are worked daily, creating stories that are later reflected in the harvest; markings that influence the quality of the grapes... from which are born perfect and cared for wines.
